

SL

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are under 15 years of age is expected to increase from 1.1 billion to 1.4 billion (United Nations 1998).

There are a number of reasons why the number of children in the world is increasing. One of the main reasons is that the number of children who are surviving to adulthood is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including improved medical care, better nutrition, and a decrease in child mortality.

Another reason why the number of children in the world is increasing is that the number of children who are being born is increasing. This is due to a number of factors, including a decrease in the age at which women are having children, and an increase in the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers.

There are a number of challenges that are associated with the increasing number of children in the world. One of the main challenges is that there are not enough resources to provide for all of the children. This is particularly true in developing countries, where there is a lack of access to education, healthcare, and basic necessities.

Another challenge is that there are not enough jobs to provide for all of the children. This is particularly true in developing countries, where there is a high unemployment rate. This means that many children are forced to work to support their families, which can have a negative impact on their education and health.

There are a number of ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to improve access to education, healthcare, and basic necessities. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing government spending, and increasing international aid.

Another way is to create more jobs. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing government spending, and increasing international aid. This can help to reduce unemployment, and provide more opportunities for children to support their families.

There are a number of other ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to increase the age at which women are having children. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

Another way is to decrease the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

There are a number of other ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to increase the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

Another way is to decrease the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

There are a number of other ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to increase the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

Another way is to decrease the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

There are a number of other ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to increase the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

Another way is to decrease the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

There are a number of other ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to increase the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

Another way is to decrease the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

There are a number of other ways that we can address these challenges. One way is to increase the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.

Another way is to decrease the number of children who are being born to women who are already mothers. This can be done through a number of means, including increasing access to family planning services, and increasing the age at which women are allowed to marry.