They Sit Together on the Porch

BY WENDELL BERRY

READ BY ANTHONY SLEAP

They sit together on the porch, the dark
Almost fallen, the house behind them dark.
Their supper done with, they have washed and dried
The dishes—only two plates now, two glasses,
Two knives, two forks, two spoons—small work for two.
She sits with her hands folded in her lap,
At rest. He smokes his pipe. They do not speak,
And when they speak at last it is to say What each one knows the other knows. They have One mind between them, now, that finally
For all its knowing will not exactly know
Which one goes first through the dark doorway, bidding
Goodnight, and which sits on a while alone.

Wedding

BY ALICE OSWALD

From time to time our love is like a sail and when the sail begins to alternate from tack to tack, it's like a swallowtail and when the swallow flies it's like a coat;
and if the coat is yours, it has a tear like a wide mouth and when the mouth begins to draw the wind, it's like a trumpeter and when the trumpet blows, it blows like millions... and this, my love, when millions come and go beyond the need of us, is like a trick;
and when the trick begins, it's like a toe tip-toeing on a rope, which is like luck;
and when the luck begins, it's like a wedding,
which is like love, which is like everything.
