GRANDMA, MY ANGEL

Grandma, my angel

On the first of June 2023,
Heaven was lucky enough to gain such an amazing soul

Grandma, my angel

You held me when I was first born
And now we are gathered here today completely torn
You had an energy that couldn't be matched
Which made each and everyone of us become attached,
From piggy backs and trips to the park
To leading me out of the dark
You truly are my angel.

I'll always cherish the unconditional love you gave
And I can wholeheartedly say I've never met anyone as brave
We've sit for hours acting, playing and singing
And you was one of the biggest parts of my upbringing
I will miss your delicious scouse and dumplings
And you and grandad arguing in the kitchen then hugging
You truly are my angel.

From coming every Friday
To only slightly
Made me realise life has no labelled end
But from me and everyone else,
We can promise you we will all now stick together, especially for you.

I promise to look after grandad and make sure he's not on his own,
I promise to think of you when I hear 'you'll never walk alone'
I promise to always try hard in everything I do
I promise I'll never stop saying goodnight to you
I promise I will continue to make you proud.
And if grandad ever tries to cook I'll tell him he's not allowed.

And we all promise to cherish every memory we were lucky to share with you
And we promise to never forget you.

I love you nan, my angel.
