All I Know About Love - Neil Gaiman

Read by Harriet Perks

*This is everything I have to tell you about love: nothing.
This is everything I've learned about marriage: nothing.*

*Only that the world out there is complicated,
and there are beasts in the night, and delight and pain,
and the only thing that makes it okay, sometimes,
is to reach out a hand in the darkness and find another hand to squeeze,
and not to be alone.*

*It's not the kisses, or never just the kisses: it's what they mean.
Somebody's got your back.
Somebody knows your worst self and somehow doesn't want to rescue you or send for the army to rescue them.*

*It's not two broken halves becoming one.
It's the light from a distant lighthouse bringing you both safely home because home is wherever you are both together.*

So this is everything I have to tell you about love and marriage: nothing, like a book without pages or a forest without trees.

*Because there are things you cannot know before you experience them.
Because no study can prepare you for the joys or the trials.
Because nobody else's love, nobody else's marriage, is like yours,
and it's a road you can only learn by walking it,
a dance you cannot be taught,
a song that did not exist before you began, together, to sing.*
