*If time exists in heaven, Do you still rise with the sun?
Do you and mama share breakfast before your day has begun?
Can the heavens hear your laughter
as you sit and reminisce about the lime we had together, and other people that you miss?*

*And daddy, do you still lake walks along heaven's seas?
And when you faze upon the surf.
Do you remember walks with James and me?
Do you gather with your family beneath heaven's glow?
And gaze upon those Welsh mountains still that once you called home.
Is music all around you, All those songs you held so dear?
Do you and Mom still dance together, The way you did when we were young and you both were here?*

We keep on dancing
