Poem: 'The stars called you home' - Donna Ashworth

The stars have called you home, love up high, so far away I think they missed your brilliance they just couldn't let you stay

You've shone that light of yours, love on all the lives you touched we've known your joy for years and years i guess they thought, enough

They need your light up there now this world grows ever dark your yoness will rain down like love dripped into every heart

The stars have called you home, love now we'll miss you, every day and every night we'll scour the skies to watch you, where you lay

And when the clouds are gathering and air's too cold to breathe the life you lived will warm our bones and your star will help us see.
