*Through the mist on a heather clad hill top
Stands a forlorn, sad lonely figure,
Stumbling blindly,
Desperately searching to find his way
Jumbled thoughts and memories exploding in his head
Sadly things that now will never be said
He hears soft voices calling, and sees a luminous light
Anxiety swiftly melts away, a calm peace transcends
Now every things alright
Sean feels and sees clearly now.
His joy is clear to see
It's
Mum and dad come to guide him on his way into history
His story will live on for future generations
He's shining brightly in the Dowling family tree*
