WELCOME

The People We Lose
Joanna Miller
Read by Hannah Roberts

The people we lose still live through us.
Everything we do, say, are...
is shaped by what we have absorbed from them.

Picture a moment when you laughed together.
Think of one thing you were taught by them.
Remember a discussion you once had.
These memories are the legacy of loss.

That we absorb these moments and can replay them,
means the ones we lose are never far from us.

None of us can stay. The shortness of life is cruel.
But the strength of human connection - love - is what means we endure in the hearts of others
after we are gone.

FAREWELL

Miss Me, But Let Me Go

Betty Miller

Read by Mags Roberts

When I come to the end of the road,
And the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in gloom-filled rooms,
Why cry for a soul set free?

Miss me a little - but not too long,
And not with your head bowed low;
Remember the love that we once shared
Miss me - but let me go.

For this is a journey that we all must take,
And each must go alone.
It's all a part of a life well lived,
A step on the road to home.

When you are lonely and sick at heart,
Go to the friends we know,
And busy your sorrows in doing good deeds.
Miss me - but let me go.
