Welcome

Good morning and welcome everybody, to this heartfelt service, to gently celebrate the all too short life of a remarkable strong and courageous woman, Vivien Herbert.... better known to all as Viv. Viv was not a moaner, through out life she had faced into whatever challenges came her way and simply did her best, even when the going was tough, she remained optimistic, and in recent times kept her spirits up with regular long walks with Colin and her little dog

Ben, keeping her lovely home spotless and getting out into her magical garden whenever she could. She didnt ask for much, and was always appreciative when things were looking up and she had a good day.

Im told that Viv was never one for too much fuss, it just wasnt her way, so our service for her will be modest, respectful and dignified.

Today, you are facing a sudden and unexpected loss, although Viv had been living with Secondary cancer for some time no one anticipated the shock news that she had passed away at home on the 28th May with heart failure. Im sure her loss must still feel very raw right now.

Although todays service is not formally religious, there will be a traditional prayer shared at committal.

What we will focus on, and draw comfort from, is the love and appreciation that was there for Viv in life, which has brought you all here today, to pay your last respects, as you say goodbye to her.

Appreciation

The family would like to thank you all for your kind support during this time of sadness.
