Death Is Nothing At All

Henry Scott Holland

Death is nothing at all,
I have only slipped away into the next room.
Whatever we were to each other, we still are.
Please, call me by my old familiar name.
Speak of me in the same easy way you always did.
Laugh, as we always laughed, at the little jokes we shared together.
Think of me and smile.
Let my name be the household name it always was,
Spoken without a shadow of a ghost in it.
Life means all it ever meant.
It is the same as it ever was.
Death is inevitable,
So why should I be out of mind because I am out of sight?
I am but waiting for you - for an interval very near.
Nothing is past or lost.
One brief moment and all will be as it was before,
Only better and happier.
Together forever.
All is well.
