OUR FATHER

POEM

It Will Be Me Written By Ray Maynard

If you should start at an unknown fright
Or suddenly awake in the dead of the night
Visualise an illusion that makes you stare
And feel a presence that isn't there
It will be me

If something should stir your mind in pensive mood
And have no reference to your thoughts accrued
If you should check whilst thinking awhile
And allow yourself a private smile
It will be me

If you feel the pressure of a tender embrace
Or gentle fingers stroke your face,
If you feel someone caress your cheek
Or hesitate mid sentence, about to speak
Be unconcerned, it will be me

So dear heart whom I seek to find
Fear not in times of troubled mind
When at leisure, let your mind roam free
Give freedom to thought, for it will be me
And I'll be searching for you
