Dismissal

Raksha was born in a small village in India called Darhi in Himachal Pradesh. She had 11 siblings; 4 brothers and 7 sisters. She could speak 5 languages. She married Madan Lal in 1966 and travelled to England by car in 1968 through the terrain of Afghanistan and mainland Europe. Raksha came with very little in terms of material possessions, but with a rich spirit she worked endlessly initially as a seamstress saving to buy their first mini-market in New Malden and worked her way to become a respected post-mistress, retiring in 2020.

In that time, she had three children, Harish, Angela and Asha and six grandchildren, now aged between 27 and 11. They have all been fortunate to have Raksha selflessly give herself to them; she nurtured, loved and provided for them all. She had an active social life, many friends and loved to cook for others, with most commenting on how she was the best cook!

Throughout Raksha's journey she was a loving and kind soul, who demonstrated great courage and determination. Raksha had such a desire to live to the fullest, spreading joy, happiness and laughter - even in the last few weeks. Her memory will continue to live through us and the many lives she touched.
